What's the latest with the Golden Vision 2030 project?

Over the past two months, the project team has checked in with six separate formal and informal groups in town, gathering up stories along the way in this unprecedented “Heart & Soul” planning initiative.

Groups include:

- The Optimists Club of Golden
- The Golden Cultural Alliance
- Together Church of Golden
- Women in the Saddle Women's Interest Group
- Downtown Merchants Association
- The American Mountaineering Center staff members (representing four separate non-profits)

So what can I expect by participating?

- This is a maximum 90-minute commitment to participate in “listening for action” through viewing stories collected among the groups listed above, listening for “Heart & Soul” values in Golden.
- The discussion will be professionally facilitated by an outside consulting firm through the Golden Vision 2030 grant awarded by the Orton Family Foundation.

How do we get from stories to community values and then to our Golden Vision 2030 Plans and Policies?

The many stories collect to date truly reflect the “Heart and Soul” values of Golden. In order to move from this step to an integrated set of community values and on to the community plan, value statements need to be identified by a wide range of community members. That's where your participation comes in. Please come and listen to what people are saying and move this process forward to a plan that represents what Goldenites care most about.

Space is limited! Please contact Nancy York in the City Planning Department to RSVP, or for more information at (303) 384-8096 or nyork@cityofgolden.net.
